The Great War 1914 - 1918

The image is a composite of three parts, all related to the British Cemetery in Amiens during the First World War.

- Top Left: A map of the Western Front showing the English Channel, the Strait of Dover, and the Belgian coast. Key locations include Dover, Dunkirk, Nieuport, Thourout, Ghent, Antwerp, Roermond, Dusseldorf, and Siegen. The map is labeled "ENGLAND" and "BELGIUM".
- Top Right: A plan of the British Cemetery in Amiens. The plan shows the layout of the cemetery with various plots (A, B, C, D, E, F) and a central cross. The plan is labeled "CEMETERY BOUNDARY" and "GREAT CROSS". It also includes a scale of feet (0 to 30) and directions to Amiens Station (2 3/4 miles) and Longueau Station (1 1/4 miles).
- Bottom: A photograph of the British Cemetery in Amiens. The photograph shows a large cross in the foreground, with many white headstones arranged in rows in the background. The cemetery is surrounded by trees and a fence.

The entire image is framed by a border of red poppies.

The image is a composite graphic commemorating the Great War (1914-1918). At the top, a map of Belgium shows the location of the memorial near Ypres. Below this is a detailed diagram of the 'Memorial to the Missing' (Mémorial aux Morts de la Guerre 1914-1918). The diagram shows a semi-circular structure with a central 'WAR STONE' and a large '6' and '7' on either side. It also indicates the 'British 1914-1918' and 'French 1914-1918' sections. A silhouette of a soldier is shown on the left, and a red poppy is on the right. The diagram is labeled 'POSITION OF THE PANELS'. To the right of the diagram is a photograph of the memorial's exterior, showing its classical architecture with columns and a central tower. Below the photograph is a field of white headstones, likely the 'Père la Chasse' cemetery. The bottom of the image is decorated with a border of red poppies and the text 'The Great War 1914 - 1918' in green.

Lest We Forget

They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old:
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning,
We will remember them.
